

Wind farms a giant issue

WIND farms - love them or loathe them but whatever you do please look at all the information provided before you make up your mind.

Once these giants stand erected overshadowing the landscape it is too late to go back. They are huge and will be seen for miles!

Sometimes it is too easy to go with the flow. Would we dare admit that we disagree when the whole world talks about nothing else but carbon footprint and climate change?

Sometimes I feel so guilty, I get so brainwashed, that I think I am personally responsible for even China's omissions. Of course I am not! I know I am doing my best and besides it is in my interest to be energy savvy.

For a start, I am saving myself a lot of money. But do I have to go as far as to pretend to like wind farms?

What is wrong with, for instance, tidal power? After all we do live on an island and there is no shortage of water and I understand it is very effective.

John Everett, the ward councillor for Misterton, has put together a very balanced website which you may wish to visit - www.mistertonwindfarm.info.

Please don't be complacent and ignore this major issue that is facing us now.

County coun Rosita Page urges residents not to ignore the issue of wind farms in the area.

Besides the proposal is for 11 wind turbines, but there are further scoping reports for future applications coming forward - five in this area including Ashby Magna and Kilworth and five just across the Rugby border.

Ask the district planning department for information and please forward them your comments. Meanwhile, watch out - there could soon be one near you!
